

in this issue

n. 17

december 2007

editorial

004 BY SERGIO ROMANO

society

008 Womenomics, the Economy Female-Style BY DONATO SPERONI
Unless women contribute more to wealth production the world's economic growth will be insufficient. But there are still numerous obstacles to gender equality

europe

017 "But there are still many economic, social and cultural rigidities"
Linda Laura Sabbadini, ISTAT's Central Director, tells about women's progress in statistical terms

020 Re-thinking a Cosmopolitan Europe BY ULRICH BECK AND EDGAR GRANDE
Europe is still suffering from a national misunderstanding, which ignores its origins and its historical mission and causes various political blockages

035 Bonomi-Cacciari: Alas, a minority perspective
Sociologist Aldo Bonomi and philosopher Massimo Cacciari exchange views on the issues raised in Cosmopolitan Europe by Ulrick Beck and Edgar Grande

economy

040 Deaglio: We are astride the Tiger EDITED BY VITTORIO BORELLI Economist Mario Deaglio shows how the nature of globalization has changed in recent years

russia

048 Putin's Successor is Called Vladimir BY PIERO SINATTI
Any doubts on the eve of the Russian elections were not about who would win, but by how many votes

063 Major Manoeuvres Underway Between Moscow and Ankara BY FERNANDO ORLANDI
The ongoing Russian-Turkish rapprochement is surprising in more ways than one. But much will depend on the initiatives that the European Union will undertake

national affairs

070 Armenia: Caught Between History and Realpolitik BY ALDO FERRARI
The Armenian genocide can no longer be repressed, as Turkey, which still appears to be balanced dangerously between past and present, is doing

citizenship

074 Democracy in Europe and in the US BY VIVIEN A. SCHMIDT
An American academic explains that there is a deficit of democracy not so much at the EU level as at that of individual countries

089 The Titan and the Toddler BY VITTORINO FERLA
China's civil society is taking its first tentative steps, tottering between restrictive legislation and the desire to stand out. Off the obligatory beaten tracks

representation

094 Multinationals Get EWC to Represent Them BY RITA FATIGUSO
What are the European Works Councils (EWCs) and how do they work? These new organisations could radically change traditional models of representation portfolio

099 China Past and Present – 60 years of Magnum photography
China over the years through the viewfinder of some of the leading Magnum Photos photographers

services

110 Japan Opts for a Private Postal Service BY MARIA ELENA VIGGIANO
The ways in which the privatization of Japan Post, also the world's largest bank, could relaunch the Japanese economy

non-profit

116 Save the children: Interview with President Neri EDITED BY ANTONIO BARBANGELO
A non-profit organisation operates efficiently if 75% of donations are spent on actual projects in the field, says Valerio Neri

the frontier of rights

124 EDITED BY ALESSANDRA CIPOLLA

reportage

126 Siria: Too Easily Dismissed as a Rogue State BY EMILIANO BOS
The winds of fundamentalism do not blow here, but the regime sometimes cuts off the air supply. The contradictions of a country that the Bush administration has defined a rogue State

139 Postcards From TEXT AND PICTURES BY MASSIMILIANO DI PASQUALE
Images, impressions and memories of what was once the fourth biggest city in the Soviet Union: a blend of art nouveau and Soviet decor

balkans

146 Bosnia, An Unexpected Ethnic Group TEXT AND PICTURES BY ALESSANDRO GIULIO MIDLARZ
In Stivor, among the woods of the Republic of Srpska, a community of Trentino nationals has survived for the past 125 years culture

152 Roy: Too Many False Myths About my India BY FRANCESCA LANCINI
Exclusive interview with Arundhati Roy, India's most important writer, who rejects the clichés used to describe her art

157 Business in China? Go and See the Treviso Exhibition EDITED BY SIMONE COFFERATI
The Genghis Khan exhibition in Treviso is an example of how archaeology can help the economy

dossier

165 1997: WHEN THE TIGERS STOPPED ROARING

166 East Asia from miracle to crisis BY STEFANO CHIARLONE
The explosion of a disastrous financial crisis in 1997-98, which raised fears about a possible economic collapse worldwide, put a temporary stop to the "Eastern Asian miracle". Today...

167 Ten years after the big crash BY GIOVANNI FERRI
Timeline and history of a crisis, the Asian one, that, ten years on, may appear to be only an unhappy memory

176 Currency crises: three methods of speculative attack BY MARCO LOSSANI
Three models of speculative attack have consolidated in the last three decades

182 The new Asian banking system BY STEFANO CHIARLONE
Changes in the Asian financial system, from a reduced number of institutions to a substantial foreign presence

190 Free trade in a free market BY MICHAEL G. PLUMMER Convergence of business cycles of the main East Asian economies has been taking place and FTAs, free-trade areas, are increasing in number

196 Pluralism is the name of the game BY GIOVANNI ADORNINO
Ten years on, pluralism appears to be the term that best describes trends in modern Asia

polemics

202 "Us, Romanian culture, Roma and Europe" EDITED BY CLAUDIA STANILA
Cristian Tudor Popescu and Mircea Cartarescu, two well-known Romanian intellectuals, discuss the facts that risked compromising relations between Italy and Romania

213 Polish culture: In search of a fresh telling BY ANNA CZAJKA
Under pressure from the expansion of market realities, it finds itself at the margins of national and social life. However, there has been a flowering of new art election monitoring

220 EDITED BY MARCO MONTANARI

industry

224 Motor Industry: Driving East? BY MATTEO FERRAZZI AND ANDREA ORAME
Almost all the best-known international motor manufacturers have set up their own production plants in Central and Eastern Europe

companies

231 Export: When Size Does Make a Difference EDITED BY ANTONIO BARBANGELO
Giampiero Garioni, a lecturer and author of several successful books, explains how new countries and renewed technologies are changing the face of international trade

new europe
economic dossier

234 Focus on Ukraine

who's who

238 Contributors to east n.17